Storm Disrupts Constitution Celebration

Mount Gilead Mayor Charles Giauque presides at the Constitution celebration

Mount Gilead High School's celebration of the bicentennial of the United States Constitution was interrupted by a thunderstorm. Students, faculty, and representatives of the community were assembled at the football field. After the Pledge of Allegiance and the National Anthem there ensued a wild dash to Building 4 as wind and rain pelted the crowd. With the dampened crowd reassembled inside, Principle John Abdella welcomed everyone to the celebration. Mr. Quinn explained the history of the Constitution and numerous people read significant portions of the Constitution. Music for the celebration was provided by the marching band.

Bloodmobile Collects 120 Pints Of Blood

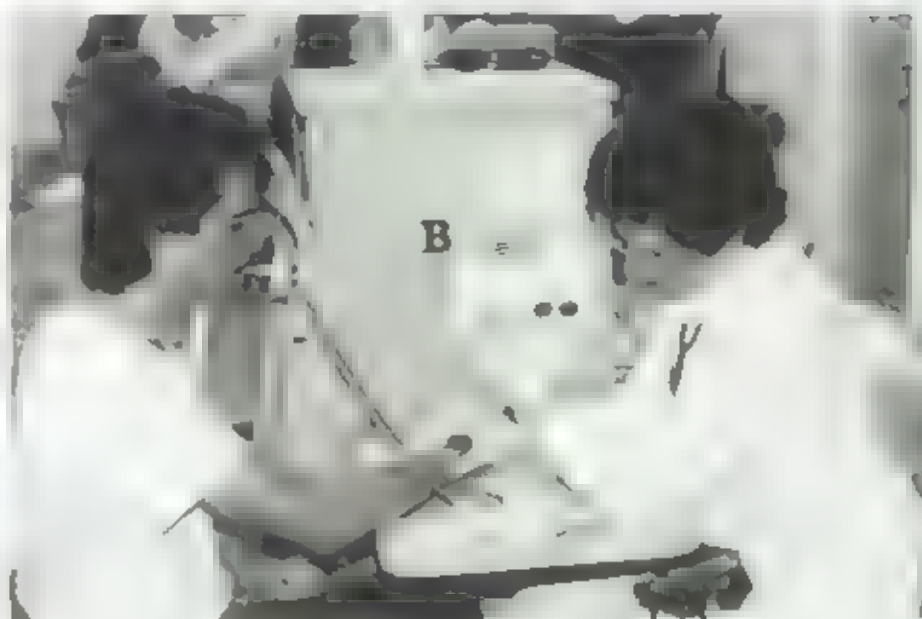

This year's bloodmobile visit to Mount Gilead High School was very successful. With the help of students, faculty, and members of the community, Mount Gilead was able to collect approximately 120 pints of blood. Again this year high school teachers Roger Beck and James Miller challenged the student body to donate more units of blood than they have given which was a total of 117 units. Mr. Miller and Mr. Beck rewarded each student donor with a candy bar for their winning effort. Although Mount Gilead had an outstanding effort, the Bloodmobile Trophy, unfortunately, was again presented to Cardington.

Audrey Troyer Reigns At Homecoming

Mount Gilead students showed their school spirit during the week of October 5th as the 1987 Homecoming activities got underway. The cheerleaders, who planned the traditional spirit week, choose the theme "It's Not Over, Till It's Over." Students were urged to participate in the activities by dressing like nerds, wearing buttons, wearing bandanas, and by wearing warpaint on designated days. Friday was purple and white day to help cheer the football team to a victory. Certain walls in the cafeteria were designated as "class walls" to be decorated by the high school classes. The Sophomore class won the Most Spirited Award for their wall with the theme of "Cream Crestline." As part of the class wall contest the cheerleaders sold paper dog bones to hang on the class walls. Members of the senior class purchased the most dog bones. Thursday night's parade, pep rally, and bonfire were a huge success. Winners in the float contest were: Senior class - Best All-Around Float with the theme of "It's All Over For The Bulldogs Now", Sophomore class - Most Spirit, and Thespians - Most Creative. Following the parade the cheerleaders held a community pep rally and bonfire where the team did their part in promoting school spirit by singing the school fight song. In pre-game activities on Friday evening, Audrey Troyer was crowned 1987 Homecoming Queen. Unfortunately in their game with the Crestline Bulldogs, the Indians came out with a 24-14 loss. Immediately following the game, DECA sponsored the Homecoming Dance in the cafeteria.

"A Christmas Carol" Sets Holiday Mood

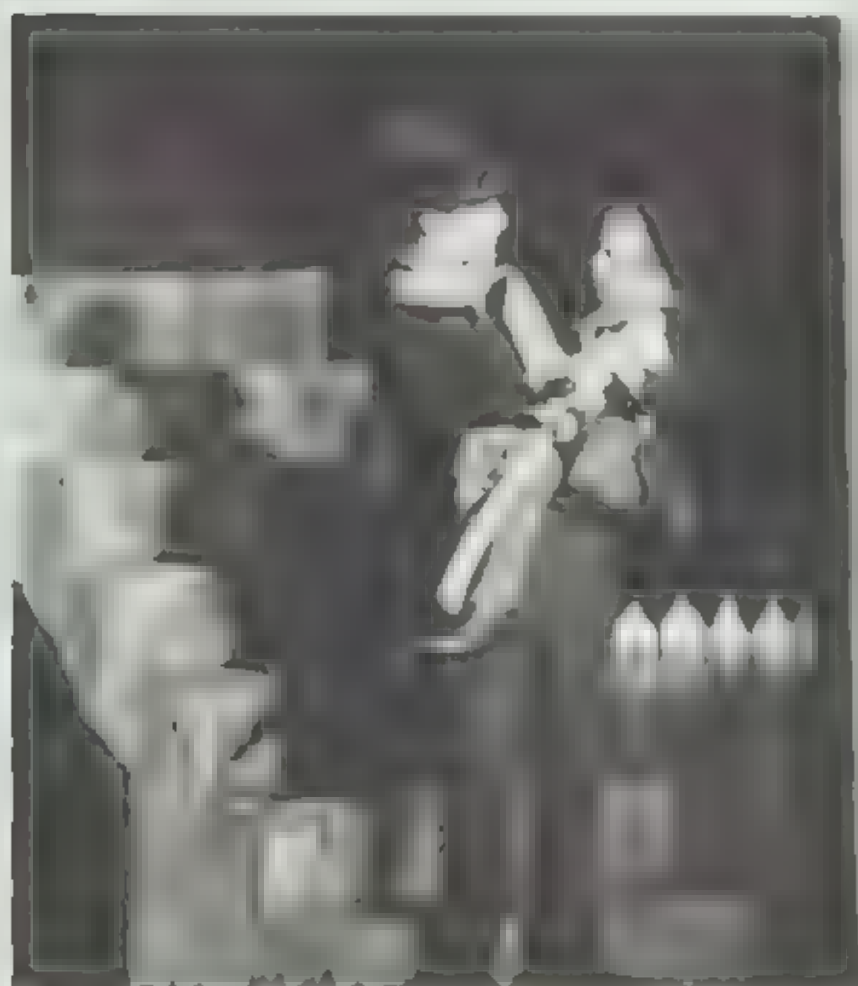

The drama department's presentation of "A Christmas Carol" was a delightful beginning to the holiday season at Mount Gilead High School. The play was a version of the IBM television special, "A Christmas Carol", starring George C. Scott which director Ken Barnett adapted to the stage. Performed in dinner-theatre fashion, the classic by Charles Dickens had a cast of over M.G.H.S. students. The set was designed by Mr. Barnett and Mike Kirk (1986-87 and 87-88 Best Thespian) who transformed the lecture room back to Victorian London. The production was a crowd-pleaser and played to full-house audiences from November 12th to 15th. Again this year, the Athletic Boosters provided the dinner before the play on Friday and Saturday evening.

"A Night To Remember" Features One-Acts

In early April audiences were treated to a night of three student-directed one-act plays. The evening's entertainment was billed as "A Night To Remember." "The Seducer," one of a series of scenes from Neil Simon's "The Good Doctor," was directed by Mike Kirk. The story involves the unwilling conversion of a seducer of other men's wives. "When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet" is a meeting, ironically, of five of the Bard's famous women. They have gathered to give Juliet the benefit of their knowledge of the male sex. Rachel Lindsay directed and starred as Juliet. Completing the evening's program was an original play by OSU-Mansfield English Professor, Ralph Hunt. His play, "Some Poe", was an adaptation of Poe's "Telltale Heart" and concerned a man so obsessed with the thought that his wife was having an affair, that he "cuts her up and buries her under the floorboards." Or so he thought. The delightful comedy-mystery was directed by Todd Decker.

In "Some Poe" Hunt's "Some Poe" concerns a detective (Jim Messenger) that his wife is fooling around

"When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet"

Ophelia (Merrily Jackson) proclaims to Katherine (Susie Sharp) and Portia (Cherie Hawk), "Alas, poor Hamlet! I knew (and loved) him"

Juliet (Rachel Lindsay) yearns for her lover, Romeo in "When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet"

The Seducer (Jim Brey) explains his methods for seducing another man's wife.

Nick (Mike Kirk) and wife Irene (Irene Snyder) discuss their mutual friend, Peter and his problems in "The Seducer."

The Seducer

Peter (Jim Brey) is forlorn and seeks the advice of his friend Nicholas (Mike Kirk).

Cassandra (Anna Stanley) informs her lover that it's over at the conclusion of "Some Poe."

"Some Poe"

Cassandra (Anna Stanley) is attacked during the night by her jealous husband Harold (T. J. Clark).

Harold (T. J. Clark) carefully replaces the floorboards after the "murder" in "Some Poe."

Nikki Wagner Is Winter Homecoming Queen

Mount Gilead High School's 1988 Basketball Homecoming ceremonies were on Friday, January 15th. This year's theme was "Winter Wonderland." Throughout the preceding week the cheerleaders sponsored Spirit Week with special decorations and dress up days. The highlight of the week was when 1987 Queen Lee Benton crowned the new Queen, Nikki Wagner. Student Council, besides planning the Homecoming ceremonies, sponsored the Winter Homecoming Dance on Saturday night which featured the sounds of one of Mansfield's hottest DJs

Fifth Grades Present Christmas Play

The Cherry Street fifth grades presented "Mrs. Claus to the Rescue" as their annual musical production. As Christmas Eve approached it became apparent that Santa Claus had a big problem. He was exhausted and had a dreadful cold. After consulting the doctor, giving Santa vitamins, and having the elves try to cheer him up, Mrs. Claus finally announced on Fran Tastiks' news program that Santa was just too sick to deliver presents this year. When no one else could be found to make Santa's Christmas Eve deliveries and things looked hopeless, Mrs. Claus came to the rescue and made Santa's deliveries herself.

Mrs. Claus quickly gets rid of the delivery man (Jon Erdener) who has brought vitamins, oranges, cod liver oil, and liver and onions to help Santa recover.

Above: On Fran Tastik's (Leah Johnson) news program, Mrs. Claus announces to the world that Santa will not be able to make his yearly Christmas run. Newsman (Jeremy Craycraft) puts the news on the air.

Right: Elves Stacy Sommers and Amber Franks watch as Elf Trisha Hart helps Mrs. Santa by dialing the telephone in an attempt to find someone to deliver Santa's gifts.

Mrs. Clause (Farah Scott) shows her concern for Santa (Adam Dean) as the Doctor (Mark Meftah) gives his diagnosis of a severe case of exhaustion.
